In the future the Android Operating System will bridge the gap between many different types of devices and change the way users interact with those devices.